public affairs, he would call out five hundred thousand men for the war. He would charter every merchant steamer and ship fit for naval service. As soon as the army was equipped and prepared to march, he would start one column of 150,000 men from Washington to Richmond. Simultaneously he would move another column of 100,000 Western men down the Miseiseippi to reach Memphis by the time the Eastern army got to Richmond. He would send a division of 50,000 men from Louisville to Nashville, to support and protect the Union men of Central and Eastern Fennessee and the mountain country of Georgia, Alabama, and Nor.h Carolina. Before these columns moved, he would fit out an expedition by mns moved, he would fit out an expedition by by sea, and place 50,000 soldiers aboard the fleet o hover along the Southern coast from Charleston to Galveston. This would keep the rebels at home in the coast States, as they would be in constant dread of a visit at every port, not knowing where the fleet might land the army. This force on shipboard, Mr. Banks thought, would compel to remain in their own States, four times the men in the expedition. It would be a morable column in the expedition. It would be a movable column which, by the aid of wind and steam, might be off Charleston to-day, and land at Savannah tomorrow. Hence its power and efficiency.

The remaining 150,000 he would distribute in divisions at Washington, New York, St. Louis, Baltimore, and other points, to act as reserves, and supports wherever the exigencies of the care.

STORY OF A NORTHERN MECHANIC—How HE ESCAPED FROM THE SOUTH.—An intelligent mechanic called on us this morning and gave a statement of his escape from North Carolina, and of his observations on the route. He had been employed in the shops of the North Carolina Railroad, between Weldon and Charlotte, for some time, but grew uneasy in consequence of having been hauled up before the Vigilance Committees three times on suspicion of being a Union man. He states that there are but a few Union men in North Carolina, and they live with a halter round their necks. The Southerners where he resided knew all about how the Manassas battle would come off five days before it really took place, and the North Carolina Central Railroad passed 8,000 Georgia, Alabama, and South Carolina troops North just before it took place. Our informant escaped just while they were rejoicing most loudly over the result of the Manassas affair, and when they thought themselves invincible.

Our informant states that were it not for the Yankees, who are working at the South, the simple reason that the rigidity of the straw rebels would never get along at all. Out of the engineers on the N. C. C. railroad, nearly every man was a Yankee. Then, too, the Yankees make all their ammunition and do everything requiring mechanical ckill. Our informant escaped by going South from North Carolina to Stephenson, Alabama, and from thence to Nashville. Hence crossed over to Kentucky and reached Lonisville in agfety. There is an encampment, mainly of artillery forces, at a place called Big Shanty, about twenty miles from Atlanta, Ga. There is also another rebel encampment of several thousand troops at Murfree-boro, Tenn. Secssion days were flying along his entire route, until reached Bowling Green, Ky., where the stars and stripes first met his gaze. He was informed that millions of dollars would be spent to induce Kentucky to go out of the Union, but from all he could learn Kentucky would remain under the stars and stripes.

Our informant was especially bitter on the Southernized Yankees, and he reiters ed that if you could drive the Yankees and at your merey. —Philiadelphia Bulletin.

came into the Tribune sanctum to see our night despatches. In the course of conversation, which turned on the rebellion, Mr. Banks expressed himself substantially as follow: This rebellion cannot be put down by the force which the Government has now called out. Seventy five thousand militia will prove wholly inadequate to restore peace to the country.

The Government and, he feared, the people of the loyal States immensely underrated the strength and means which the rebel chiefs can command. This is a rebellion of the slave power against a republican form of government. That political element which has been strong enough to rule this nation for fifty years cannot be reduced to subjection to the Constitution by a few regiments of militia. Before this gigantic slaveholders' conspiracy can be crushed, it will tax to the utmost the power and endurance of the nation.

The people will have to put forth an effort which has no parallel in modern times. He regarded this as the most formidable as well as a strocious rebellion which had occurred since the Middle Ages. The Sepoy insurrection was no circumstance to it, either in strength or wickedness. The Sepoys did not revolt for the purpose strangling free governments and setting up a slave despotism, as the authors of the secession rebellion have done. The Sepoys were reduced to obedience in a few months by less than 80,000 British troops. Four times that many will not suffice to crush out the slaveholders' revolt against the Union. If he was at the head of public affairs, he would call out fire hundred thousand means and ship fit for naval service. Graham sailed in her from Liverpool on her illfated voyage, and in all human probability was on board at the time she was lost with all hands.
This in the strongest point in the entire chain of evidence, for it connec's the writer of the memorandum directly with the lost ship, and the ship with the writer. Lastly, since the monorandum has been given to the world—now some weeks—we have no intimation that any ship named the Pacific, sailing from Liverpool recently, has been lost, or is even missing.

Having again reached the Court-house, calls for speeches from Hay, of Bowling Green, and Proctor, of Edmonson, were promptly responded to by those gentlemen. The good attention which prevailed, and the almost deafening applause with which they were greeted, showed the deep interest that was taken in the subject. To every appeal in behalf of our country and its flag a hearty response came up from many a brave bosom in that assemblage, and a determination to defend them to the last. I trust that this may be their intention, and if in the course of events the stars and stripes shall be consigned to the dust, that Kentuckians will be the last to desert the falling standard.

respondent now in Virginia:

The militia are being mustered in to day, and many of them came into it with considerable reluctance. There are some who have no ardent sympathy for the cause. They will fight for the South, of course, if obliged to fight, but they have the feeling that if it had not been for South Carolina there would have been no neces by for righting. Many others can badly spare thating. Their oats is unharvested; their other crops are still immature; they have no hands to work them but their own; and it is truly a matter of serious inconvenience and injury to be obliged to turn cut. Yet in this section there are many who can hight, and who can be spared to fight, but who will not unless they are compelled to do it. Besides this, with the militia will come out the ordinary fire-arms of the country, which will not come without.

NORTH MISSOURI. - We clip the following from the Chicago Times of the 8th:

Small bands of rebels, led by apparently un-authorized individuals, without any general con-cert of action or well-settled purpose in view, and having no organization other than a mute under-standing with the rebel leaders, seem to be prowlin the prosecution of this style of warfare the rebels are by no means successful. An attempt of such a nature was made on a small Union camp of but three hundred and fifty loyal troops, at Athens, Mo., a few miles west of Keckuk, on Monday morning last. The rebels, from one thousand to twelve hundred strong, were led by one Martin Green, a brother of the ex-Senator of that name from Misscuri. They approached the camp soon after daylight, but found the small Federal force prepared for them. After an hour's fighting they were compelled to retreat, with a loss of from fifteen to eighteen killed and as many more wounded. The Federal troops captured eighteen prisoners, thirty-one horses and two secession flags.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS. OUR WAR FOR THE UNION-THE MEN, THE

MEANS, AND THE POWER FOR AN OVER-WHELMING CAMPAIGN.—Under this head the New York Herald has the following article: Within the last ten days there has been a very remarkable and encouraging change from the gloomy condition of things at Washington immediately following the disastrous battle in front of Manassas. All apprehensions concerning the safety of the Federal Capital are again dismissed. The late feeling of painful anxiety has given way to a sense of security, and our loyal people, more juclined to congratulate see he other accuracy. ematic, overwhelming, and decisive cam-

It has been admitted by the enemy, that with their defeat at Manassas, the rebel cause would have been lost beyond redemption. They had accordingly strained every nerve, and had well nigh exhausted the active fighting elements of the revolved States in their preparations for a desperate struggle in this first grand encounter. They have secured the advantages and the prestige of an unexpected victory; and yet, comparatively, they are weaker in the field to day than they were a month ago. We have it from various intelligent resources that the cream of the warlike population of our rebellicus "Confederate States" has already been drawn off—that the rebel armies of two hundred and fifty thousand States" has already been grawn on — nat the rebel armies of two hundred and fifty thousand men now in the field have left but a scanty margin for reinforcements, and that henceforth they must be drawn almost exclusively from the "poor margin for reinforcements," and that henceforth they must be drawn almost exclusively from the "poor margin for reinforcements," and the state of t le interest in a war undertaken for the exclusive object of an unmixed pro-slavery despotism. We know, too, from a cloud of witnesses, and from the very nature of things in the revolted South, that the armies of Davis are extensively subsisted by forced contributions, from day to day, and that the rebel soldier, if paid even a trifling instalment of his compensation, is paid in shinplasters, which, at a ruinous discount, are received as money among the Southern peoare received as money among the Southern peo-ple only upon compulsion. The Davis govern-ment has neither money nor revenue at home nor credit abroad; the stock of goods from which its soldiers have been clothed must now be nearly exhausted; while within the next three mon has at least two hundred thousand Southern transfer. will require a new outfit. We spprehend, there-fore, that a rigid blockade, which will effectually cut off from the rebels any Northern or European supplies of woellen fabrics and shoes, in exchange for cotton, will almost of itself, by December next, be sufficient to break up this whole South-ern rebellion. We cannot imagine that the reb l soldier, without pay and without clothing, will continue to admire his oppressive Southern Confederacy in the midst of the snows and frosts of pointed and thoroughly equipped Union army of half a million of men. This army can be raised and fully prepared for active operations by the middle of October. It should be thus made ready, in conjunction with a powerful navy and numerous transports, for offensive inre and numerous transports, for orensive inroad along our Southern seaboard. Then, with a column of two hundred thousand, or of one hundred and fifty thousand men, moving southward from the Potomac and the Chesapeake Bay, and with a column of one hundred and fifty thousand moving down the Mississippi, we may keep afloat a marine column of fifty thousand men for sea heard antaryzing at such points as Chestectee. board enterprises at such points as Charleston Savannah, and Mobile, and still hold one hur dred and fifty thousand men for gerrison dut and for reserves. Thus, with a single decisive battle in Virginiz, all the border slave States may be wheeled into line with the loyal States of the North, and from Missouri, Kentucky, Ten nessee, Virginia, and Maryland a co-operative column of another hundred thousand Union vol nteers may be added to our military strength before December.

Reduced to this extremity, it will be no difficult matter to bring back the cotton States to the blessings of the best government in the world within a very short time. In a word, upon some such plan as this we have indicated, we can and divisions and hopeless anarchy North and South. English Gossip—The Queen of England recently gave a concert at Bucking am Palace in honer of her daughter and guest the Princess of Prusia. When all those who had been invited had arrived, the Queen, instead of entering the apartment where they expected her, ordered a carriage, and taking with her one of her daughters, the Princess Helena, went to pass the night in a country house she owns at Richmond, from which she returned the next day. Prince Albert did the honers of the concert, to the great supervise of the guests, for whom this singular incident of course furnished a theme of conversation during the evening. Speculations respecting the Queen's sanity are very common in England.

we invite attention to a call for a meeting of the Union Democracy of Grant county. The suggestion is a good one, to adopt some common platform of objects for a great Union party North and South, and effect its complete organization, so that the people of both see ions of the Union may have a chance to make themselves heard. Our cause is just, noble, and patriotic, and the point is what are the best means to accomplish pantis, what are the best means to accomplish it? Let the plan be adopted and extended to all the States, and the work will be done. Four fifths of the people long to save their country; let them move, and they can do it, in spite of armies and politicians.—Frankfort Commonwealth.
